NO BACKDOWN ON PART OF IDAHO DEMOCRATS

Meeting Held at Boise at Which Resolutions Are Adopted.

BOISE, Ida., Sept. 27 .- At a meeting of the anti-Mormon Democratic State Central committee, held in this city yesterday, the following action was

The state committee of the Democratic party of Idaho is in session, in response to a call by its chairman, the Hon. Timoothy Regan. It was the expectation and hope that our state ticket would have been judicially indorsed before this meeting. The committee had intended to take vigorous and aggressive action for the election of our ticket. The court of final resort deeming it wise to withhold the decision as to whether the Mormon ticket or the Democratic ticket should be recognized as representing the Democracy of Idaho until Monday next, the 26th, we desire unanimously to express the sentiments of the Democrats of Idaho as represented by those chosen by them to ex-ments of the Democrats of Idano as represented by those chosen by them to express their views.

We stand by the declarations of the party made in its platforms of 1904, 1906 and 1908. There will be no swerving by the genuine Democrats of Idaho. Should the court recognize our ticket, which, in its platform and candidates, is pledged to the extermination of polygamy and the destruction of the control of the Mormon church in our political affairs, we will elect W. C. Whitwell governor of the state. His personality flits the platform upon which he stands. No right-thinking citizen will doubt him or his platform. Should the court give us the decision, we will elect a majority of the legislature, who can be trusted to carry out the party pledges. Our party could not have selected for its candidate for the United States Senate a man more worthy of its support than Judge W. W. Woods, Judge Woods and Doctor Whitwell typify the platform upon which they sand. No matter what the decision of the court may be, the Democracy of Idaho will adhere to the principles of the party. It gives the committee, which is representative of the santimuts of the Democracy of the state, and we think the true feeling of the best citizenship of the state is in the following resouttlon:

Resolved, That the thanks of the Democratic state central committee of Idaho are tendered to Hon. Fred T. Dubols, dis-

Resolved. That the thanks of the Democratic state central committee of Idaho are tendered to Hon. Fred T. Dubols, distinguished citizen of Idaho, for the courageous stand he has miantained for a high moral and political issue and for his unfaltering zeal in behalf of a cause that is just in the sight of God and man. Becoming convinced that the Mormon church, as it is represented by the hierarchy at Salt Lake City and through its lesser officials and members in Idaho, had violated the solemn pledges it openly espoused that he might be able to secure the admission of the state into the union, Mr. Dubols arrayed himself against the efforts of the church and its system to perpetuate polygamy and church control in politics and government in this state.

He has since, with conscientious and unselfish purpose, waged the battle for the purity of the home and for the separation of the church from state without compensation or reward, giving his time and his superior talents and whatever he could spare of his worldly substance to the future of idaho. As a committee, we realize that, unless the high ideals in morals and government for which Mr. Dubois has striven shall prevail, that the future will not commend itself to the good citizenship of the republic.

We feel, therefore, that the state is indebted to him in a greater measure than we teel, therefore, that the state is in-debted to him in a greater measure than it can ever repay and we desire to do our small pais, as a committee in full sympathy with his efforts, through this acknowledgement of his inestimable

AMUSING SITUATION OVER A CELEBRATION

PARIS, Sept. 27.—An amusing situation has arisen over the proposed celebration in the town of Montauban of the centenary of the Department Tarn-et-Garonne, of which it is the capital. Almost all the departments of France date from 1790, but Tarn-et-Garonne is fortunate in having been formed in 1808, so that its centenary stands out distinct and apart from the others.

The latter and his assistant thereupon began to ply crowbars against the door, which withstood their efforts for a considerable time. At intervals cans of hot water were thrown upon them, but eventually the door fell in and Earl and his sons left the house. The various articles within were removed, and the sheriff took possession of the premises for Lord Ashton. A small crowd which had assembled jeared the sheriff's officers, but showed no unfriendliness to the police.

We see, too, that the source of vectifying must be deeper and higher than man. Christ challenged all remedial and reformatory agency in this assertion, that it man found his righteousness and his holy kingship life should have all things and be complete. And that the age has been wrong and Jesus right is attested by the age's failure to reach what at his sought and men's success in finding what they have needed in finding the kingdom. Not only the problem of contentment but all problems lie within the are of this truth.

Beyond the important business of life's rightness in subjection to him, beyond the personal salvation, there is the field of service which God would have us en-of service which God would have us en-ter, expressing the life of the kingdom in social ministry and uplift.

And as important to us in the field of service as that of salvation it is to have first the kingdom. The man is foolish who thinks the ideals of Jesus can be realized apart from his life, his Jesus did not seek to take away the value of any gift of God to man. By precept and example he taught us to take and use thankfully all the gifts of God.

He did, however, seek to have us wise enough to set things in their proper place, and recognizing the temporal and eternal, to give them their place accordingly.

Here, however, is the vital thing. He says we must shut the door of the brain's Subsequently the meeting was begun, Mr. Raymond K. Sheehy presiding. Mr. Kettle indignantly alluded to the treatment he and his fellow members had received. He was there on a ruined platform, and he asked where was Mr. O'Brien; where were the "white flaggers" from Cork; where were the gentlemen who had got for the landlords seven years' more pur-chase for their lands than was paid formerly? He came fully convinced that Ireland was amply fitted for home rule, but after what he had seen he was asking himself, was it worth the sacrifice and labor that had been made for it? He would wonder whether the element of blackguardism could terror-ize and put down the element of reason. He wanted home rule to be a rule of reason and argument. The United Irish league called a meet-ent, and after waiting for a short time he drove to Timahoe, a village twelve miles distant, where he joined Mr. Shee hy, M. P., and John O'Connor, M. P. and a meeting was held.
